

AMERICA ABLE TO DEFY WORLD

The Fortifications for War Game Are Absolutely Perfect.

FOR SHAM BATTLE

United States Army and Navy Could Withstand Combined Attacks.

MANEUVERS FRIDAY

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Pequot Point, Conn., Aug. 27.—The forts of the Narragansett and New London districts with outlying stations are on a perfect war footing today, prepared to withstand the invading fleet under the command of Admiral Hightson, although the war game between the army and navy does not begin until midnight Friday.

Ready For Battle
The army has been placed in position and ready for hostilities. Strictest secrecy is being maintained. Elaborate signal and telephone systems between the various forts have been completed at a cost of forty thousand dollars.

Could Withstand The World
Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—According to advice from General MacArthur received at the war department the defenses of Long Island Sound, Newport, New London and Narragansett have been put in such good condition in anticipation of the coming naval maneuvers that if actual war were impending and the United States navy were to co-operate they would be absolutely impregnable to the combined attacks of the navies of the world.

EXILED LEADER IS BACK IN COLOMBIA

Threatens to Start Another Revolution—Colombian Troops Are Sent to Panama.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—General Rafael Uribe Uribe has landed in Colombia whence he was driven out a year ago. It is his avowed purpose to raise another revolution. Advice received at the Colombian legation here state that he landed near the Magdalena River several days ago.

Colombia is pouring troops into Panama to operate against the revolutionary leader, General Herrera, who appears to have defeated General Bertrán at Acuña Dulce. General González Valencia, the commander in chief of the Colombian army, will take the field in Panama and direct all operations. A new Colombian government gunboat, the Bogota, which is being fitted out at Seattle, Wash., will sail for Panama on September 5, officered by Americans.

At the legation it is stated here that General Uribe Uribe's contention that the extension of franchise granted the French company is not valid because it is unratified by the Colombian congress is of no importance because the negotiations will undoubtedly be concluded with the United States before 1904, when the franchise now held by the French company will expire.

URGES VACCINATION IN
ANTHRAX AND BLACKLEG

Board of Live Stock Commissioners Issue Bulletin on Diseases Prevalent in Illinois Herds.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—The state live stock commissioners have issued a bulletin on the subject of anthrax and blackleg, which is prevalent throughout the state in many herds. Anthrax, the bulletin says, is an infectious disease and not contagious in the common acceptance of the term. It is due to the presence of a germ which inhabits the soil of an infected territory and at times the vegetation produced thereon. If the germs are received into the system it produces the apoplectic form; if received into the system through wounds the carbuncular form is the result. Blackleg is caused by the entrance of a germ into the system of an animal through the skin, which rapidly produces fatal results. Vaccination is recommended as a preventive in both these diseases.

Forest fires have been raging for some time on three sides of Rhineland. No losses by homesteaders have been reported as yet.

GEORGIA CAYVAN
GOES HOME TO DIE

Popular Actress Is Blind, and a Mental Wreck, the Result of Unjust Slander.

New York, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Miss Georgia Cayvan, blind and a mental wreck, has been removed from a sanitarium at Flushing to the home of her sister, Miss Alice W. Cayvan, of New Dorchester, Mass., to pass her last days among her friends. Once a favorite of the American stage, Miss Cayvan's career has had a pitiful ending, due largely to cruelly unjust reflections on her character. She was at the zenith of her fame when she made the acquaintance of Oliver Sumner Teall ten years ago. Just about this time she was stricken with a tumor, which is believed to have been the original cause of her physical decline. She underwent an operation, which left her in a worse condition than before, but rather than disappoint her audiences she continued in her part until her physicians almost dragged her out of the theater.

While she was in this condition she was named as the co-respondent in the divorce suit brought against "Ollie" Teall by his wife. Her friends instantly rallied to her support. The Professional Woman's League defended her name, a suit for slander was instituted, and Mrs. Teall's lawyers made a public apology and vindicated the actress. But the damage had been done. Georgia Cayvan's mind gave way under the false accusations and her removal to a sanitarium followed. In her delirium she attacked her nurses and the other patients. When removed Sunday she offered violent resistance. She became blind soon after entering the sanitarium, and much of the time she has been delirious.

One result of her sufferings was the passage of a new law guarding against the indiscriminate naming of co-respondents in divorce suits without due cause and giving the person named the opportunity to appear in court and make a defense.

METHODISTS MEET IN MILTON

Well Known Pastors of This District Take Part in Interesting Discussions.

At Milton a very successful conference of the Janesville district Methodist Episcopal church was brought to a close yesterday. After a short devotional service in the morning, and a business session the entire day was given up to a series of addresses by various pastors of the districts.

Rev. J. M. Judy of Richmond opened the devotional exercises and after a business session Rev. Thomas W. Noth of Milton gave a review of Dr. M. S. Terry's "Moses and the Prophets." Discussions followed by Rev. G. W. Trevor of Whitewater, and Rev. H. W. Bosworth, Beloit.

Young of Lake Geneva and Rev. John Reynolds then took opposite sides of the question "Has Modern Criticism Affected Unfavorably Any Essential Doctrine of Christianity?"

After these addresses a series of five minute papers followed. Rev. S. Lugg of Palmyra took as his topic "Duties and Responsibilities of Conference Visitors to Our Theological Schools," and the Rev. J. T. Murrish of Sharon treated of the same subject.

Rev. J. H. Tippet of Janesville and Rev. Andrew Porter of Delavan were the last speakers of the conference, taking as their theme for discussion "Is There a Danger of the Church Becoming Too Dogmatic in Matters of Interpretation and Doctrine?"

After these addresses a series of five minute papers followed. Rev. S. Lugg of Palmyra took as his topic "Duties and Responsibilities of Conference Visitors to Our Theological Schools," and the Rev. J. T. Murrish of Sharon treated of the same subject.

BOUNTY JUMPERS
GET NO PENSIONS

Law Providing for Pensioning Them Is Nullified by Another Section of the Act.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Another question which is vexing the souls of the old soldiers is as to a law which provides pensions for confederate soldiers who served in the union army ninety days prior to the close of the war. A third question which has arisen is as to the pensioning of any enlisted man in the army who was honorably discharged from the last contract of service entered into by him during the late war of the rebellion, and whether he shall be held to have been honorably discharged from all similar contracts of service previously entered into by him with the United States during the war.

In plain English this relates to bounty jumpers. A law was passed providing for pensions for confederate soldiers, their wives and children, in instances where the former confederate entered the union service. This law also provides for pensions for bounty jumpers, but a section of the same law nullifies it. This provides:

"That such enlisted or appointed man served not less than six months under said last enlistment or appointment that his entire service under said last enlistment or appointment was faithful, and that he did not receive by reason of said last enlistment or appointment any bounty or gratuity other than from the United States in excess of that to which he would have been entitled if he had continued to serve faithfully until honorably discharged under any contract of service previously entered into by him, either in the army, navy or marine corps, during the war of the rebellion."

As all persons coming within the provisions of this law received a bounty in excess of that to which they would have been entitled if they had continued to serve faithfully under a former contract, none of them will receive any benefit from this law.

Accident at the Budapest Races Causes a Hostile Demonstration.

JOCKEY IS HURT

In Collision with a Horse Ridden by an American.

AN ENRAGED PEOPLE

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 27.—A great anti-American demonstration took place in this city today and for a time the wildest excitement prevailed. One American was nearly lynched as an outcome of the trouble.

Accident At Races
The feeling against the Americans was aroused by an accident at the races held here today in which a collision occurred between horses ridden by Hungarian and American jockeys.

Did Not Like the Looks of the $10,000 Machine, So He Gave It Away.

New York, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Julian Block, a chauffeur to Chas. M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, is probably the happiest man on the broad Atlantic.

Just before he sailed Mr. Schwab presented to Block an automobile worth $10,000, because he did not like its looks.

When Mr. Schwab came to New York from his father's home at Loretto, Pa., last week to prepare for his trip to Europe, he had a consultation with his chauffeur regarding his automobiles and how many, if any, were to be taken to Europe during his stay on the other side.

There were four machines. Mr. Schwab did not recognize the smallest—a twelve-horse power machine—as his own property. It seemed insignificant alongside the other monsters.

"Who owns that machine?" asked Mr. Schwab.

"Why, that is your old one," said Block.

"So it is," said Mr. Schwab, "but I guess I'll sell it. No, I won't. I don't like the idea of throwing over the old friends for the new. We'll keep it in the family. It is yours. I present it to you."

WORLD IN TOUCH BY ELECTRICITY

SOME FACTS ABOUT SUBMARINE AND LAND TELEGRAPHS.

CABLES LIE IN EVERY OCEAN

One Now Being Laid in the Pacific,
Where It Was Considered
Impossible Heretofore.

"The Submarine and Land Telegraphs of the World," is the title of a monograph prepared by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics which will appear in the forth coming Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance. It represents some information regarding the submarine telegraphs of the world which is especially interesting at this time in view of the prospective construction of an all-American cable across the Pacific. It shows that the submarine telegraphs of the world number 1,750. Their aggregate length is nearly 200,000 miles; their total cost is estimated at $275,000,000, and the number of messages annually transmitted over them is more than 6,000,000.

The World Connected.
All the great divisions of the earth are now connected by their wires, and from country to country and island to island the thoughts and words of mankind are instantaneously transmitted. Beneath all oceans save the Pacific the universal language which this system has created flows uninterrupted, and man talks as face to face with his fellowman at the antipodes. Darkest Africa now converses daily with enlightened Europe or America, and the great events of the morning are known in the evening throughout the inhabited world. Adding to the submarine lines the land telegraph systems by which they are connected and through which they bring interior points of the various continents into instantaneous communication, the total length of telegraph lines of the world is 1,180,000 miles, the length of their single wires or conductors 3,800,000 miles, and the total number of messages annually sent over them about 4,000,000, or an average of more than 1,000,000 each day.

A Half Century's Work.
In the short half century since the practicability of submarine telegraphy was demonstrated, the electric wires have invaded every ocean except the Pacific. Nearly a score of wires have been laid across the Atlantic, of which no less than thirteen now successfully operate between the United States and Europe, while three others span the comparatively short distance between South America and the African and South European coast lines. Throughout the Indian ocean lines connect the Far East with Europe and America via the Red Sea, the Mediterranean, the western coast of Europe and the great trans-Atlantic lines. The Mediterranean is crossed and recrossed in its entire length and breadth by numerous cable lines, and the "Mediterranean of America," the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea, is traversed in all directions by lines which bring its islands and colonies into speaking relations with each other and with South America, Central America, the United States, and thence with Europe, Africa, Asia—the whole world. Along the eastern coast of Asia, cable lines loop from port to port, and island to island, relaying messages overland from Eastern Europe via the Russia-Siberian land lines and forwarding them to Japan, China, Australia, New Zealand, the Straits Settlements, Hong Kong, and the Philippines, and receiving others in return. South America is skirted with cable lines along its entire border save the extreme south, where they are brought into inter-communication by land lines. Along the entire coast of Africa, cables loop from place to place, and from colony to colony, stretching along the entire circumference and penetrating the interior by land lines at various points.

In All Waters.
Every body of water lying between the inhabited portions of the earth, with the single exception of the Pacific ocean, has been crossed and recrossed by submarine telegraph lines. Even that vast expanse of water has been invaded all along its margin and submarine wires stretching along its border from Siberia to Australia, while its eastern borders are skirted with lines which stretch along the western coasts of the two Americas. Several adventurous pioneers in Pacific telegraphy have ventured to considerable distances and depths in that great ocean, one cable line running from Australia to New Zealand a distance of over 1,000 miles, and another extending from Australia to the French colony of New Caledonia, 800 miles eastward. A cable which is to connect Canada with Australia across the Pacific is now being laid at the joint expense of the United Kingdom, Canada and the Australian Commonwealth and has already been completed from Vancouver, British Columbia to Fanning Island, just south of the Hawaiian Islands, and it is expected that the entire line will be completed by the end of the present year.

The Obstacles.
The chief obstacle in the past to the construction of a grand trans-Pacific cable was found in the fact that mid-ocean resting places could not be very satisfactorily obtained or arranged for, no single government controlling a sufficient number of suitable landing places to make this seem practicable, in view of the belief that the distance through such messages could be sent as cables controlled was limited. While landing places at Hawaii, Wake Island, Guam, and the Philippines, however, no section of a cable stretching from the United States to Asia and touching at these points would have a length equal to that now in daily operation between France and the United States. The length of the French cable from Brest, France, to Cape Cod, Mass., is 3,250 miles, while the greatest distance from land to land on the proposed Pacific route would be that from San Francisco to Hawaii, 2,080 miles; that from Hawaii to Wake Island being 2,040 miles, from Wake Island to Guam 1,290 miles, from Guam to Manila 1,520 miles, and from Manila to the Asiatic coast 630 miles. While the depth of the Pacific is somewhat greater than that at which any cable has been laid, the difference between its depth and the greatest depth reached by cables in the Atlantic would be very slight, the cable recently laid from Haiti to the Windward Islands being in 18,000 feet of water. The recent survey for a cable between the Pacific coast and Manila justifies the belief that a route can be selected in which the depth will not exceed 18,000 feet. The recent survey made by the Bureau of Equipment, Navy Department, under the direction of Rear Admiral R. B. Bradford, disclosed the greatest ocean depths heretofore known lying between Midway Island and Guam and being 31,614 feet, or but 86 feet short of six miles depth of water. This depression, however, which has been named the "Nero deep," in honor of the vessel from which the sounding was made, can be avoided by a detour, and it is believed that the necessary depth will not exceed 20,000 feet and may not be more than 18,000 feet.

WANTED A WARRANT BUT FEARED JUDGE

AFRAID OF GETTING RUN IN

Riley Was Assaulted, and Wanted
Herrmann Arrested, But Did Not Dare.

Michael Riley found himself in a sad predicament yesterday morning. He wished to have a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Charles E. Herrmann but did not dare ask for it from Judge Fifield, the only person who could give it to him. The complaint which he wished to bring against Mr. Herrmann, who is the proprietor of the American House, was for assault and battery, which was committed yesterday morning.

Was Kicked Into the Street.
According to an eye-witness, Herrmann kicked Riley into the street from his saloon, and then added several more blows as he lay on the sidewalk. All parties concerned admit that Riley walked into the saloon and called for a glass of beer, and that Herrmann then kicked and struck him, wounding him over the eye sufficiently to cause a slight flow of blood, and then kicked him out through the doors of the saloon, and into the street. There were very few who witnessed the affair, which took place shortly after ten o'clock this morning.

Wanted a Warrant.
Riley, as soon as he could collect himself, his half drunken condition impeding him fully as much as his wounds, dragged himself down the street from the American House to Justice Reeder's office where he applied for a warrant for Herrmann's arrest. Mr. Reeder informed him that he had no authority in that matter, unless in a suit for damages. Only a few days in jail for his assailant would satisfy the injured man, and so he was told that he would have to see Judge Fifield, who alone could issue a warrant for arrest.

Afraid of Judge Fifield.
Riley's protests were vehement. "I'll tell you de truth," he'd be runnin' meself in," was his indignant rejoinder, and he was no more enthusiastic over the prospect of applying to Officer Hogan, or any other member of the police force. Riley asserted that his only reason for entering the saloon was to get his pay for some wood he split a few days ago.

Did Not Want Him Around.
Herrmann told a different story. He said that Riley had received full return for all labor that he had ever done for him. He had, he stated, repeatedly told Riley that he did not want him around and would put him out if he came, and his conduct this morning was only a fulfillment of his word. "Riley," he said, "is a detriment to the good name of any place, and I won't have him around here." It is not probable Riley will take any legal action in the case.

SHEEP AND CALVES KILLED IN CITY

CONTRARY TO ORDINANCE PRO-HIBITING THE PRACTICE.

CLAIM THAT IT IS NECESSARY

Butchers Say It Is Neither Offensive Nor Injurious to Health.

It is an undeniable fact that there are many city ordinances which are constantly being broken. The fact that they are being broken is no secret, yet the breaking is so harnessed that the city authorities do nothing to take action in regard to the matter. One instance of this is found in the habit of the butchers of slaughtering calves and sheep in their shops.

Ordinance Forbids.
This custom is expressly forbidden by section one of ordinance ninety of the city ordinances. In that section it is expressly stated that no person shall slaughter or dress any cow, sheep or swine, or other animal within the limits of this city, without first having obtained permission from the common council. "There is no record that permission has been received by the butchers in this city to make a custom of killing small animals in their shops.

Kill Small Animals.
Nevertheless nearly every day calves and sheep are driven up at most of the shops, and the killing and dressing is done within. Most of the butchers openly admit the fact, and say "What of it? We have done it for fifty years, and we will until it can be proven that it does the slightest harm to anyone. Our shops are perfectly clean. The offal and waste is all caught in trenches and carted away immediately, and everything is kept pure and clean."

Harms No One.
In several cases the storekeepers next door to the butcher shops said that they knew that calves were killed in the shops, but that they did not know when it was being done, and that there was nothing disagreeable in the way of odor resulting from the habit.

Butchers Defend Practice.
One of the butchers who was interviewed on the subject said that if the ordinance was enforced it would mean that the meat markets would have to rely on Chicago shipments for calves and sheep. This would mean that the cost to the butchers would be greater, and a corresponding raise in selling price would be necessitated.

"It might be all right," he said, "to go out to the slaughter house in this weather to kill a single calf or sheep, but it is a different proposition when the thermometer is twenty below zero. Then we would rather pay the Chicago price than make the trip out three miles and a half, as I have to do, to kill a single animal."

At Mercy of Seller.
"It is well enough to go out two or three times a week to kill a batch of animals, but we never can tell just when we can get these smaller ones, and we must wait for the days when the farmers bring them in."

BOEHM'S DEMAND IS $10,000 DAMAGES

He Refuses to Accept $2,500 in Settlement for His Wife's Death.

It is reported that the Chicago & North Western railroad company have made Charles Boehm an offer of $2500 for killing his wife and injuring his child at First street a short time ago. Boehm refused to accept the offer and demanded $10,000. Edward H. Ryan has charge of the case for Mr. Boehm.

Along the Mohawk

The announcement made that Julia Kingsley and Nelson Lewis, with their strong supporting company, will appear at the Myers Grand on Friday, Aug. 29th in the new drama, "Along the Mohawk," should fill the house. This production is just from the Chicago Academy, where it is called the most beautiful and intensely interesting story of pastoral life ever put into dramatic form. The plot centers in a newspaper office, and around its editor, a slow speaking, good-natured, trusting man, of the type Sol Smith Russell was master in portraying. The comedy which was written by Nelson Lewis, the actor, who appears as the editor, is a notable departure from the strictly conventional play writing to which all are accustomed. The plot has to do with Doris Carew, a young woman who comes to the Beacon office in response to Waters' request to a New York journal for a reporter. The young woman has had a past, but according to her tell it has been of the most spotless purity, save as it contained a blackguard who married her and who for four years has haunted her, demanding money. He follows her to the Beacon office and being refused cash, swears he'll have revenge and proceeds to take it. An unprincipled politician, who holds the mortgage on the Beacon property and insists that the paper shall boom him in the election close at hand, is a willing listener to the husband's awful accusations, and the play has to do with the defeating of these two fierce plotters and the vindicting of the most honest of editors and his fair reporter. A newspaper press in operation is one of the features of the play, and the audience cheer wildly for the good folk, and hiss vigorously for the wicked ones when they take the curtain calls at the close of the act in which the press is seen at work.

Memorials

The making of Memorial Albums of obituaries published by newspapers has developed into a recognized industry. The Burdell Clipping Bureau of New York clips and preserves all published obituaries, mounting the items in albums and binding in appropriate manner. These albums have a family historical value which will be more appreciated in years to come than at the present day.

Some of the collections run into the thousands of items. The largest collection ever made, outside that of the late President McKinley, is that of the late John W. Mackay, which now numbers over 4,000 items and when the collection is completed after the funeral will number fully 6,000. The stories about Mr. Mackay's death published by the Gazette are included in the collection.

BUSINESS MEN TO DISCUSS FACTORY

AT SPECIAL MEETING TONIGHT

Janesville Has Good Opportunity to Secure Hough Porch Shade
Company's Plant

The Janesville Business Men's association will meet this evening in the municipal court room to hear what Don Farnsworth, president of the Hough Porch Shade company, of Worcester, Mass., has to say in regard to the removal of the company to this city.

A. E. Bingham, R. M. Bostwick and P. Hohenadel, Jr., went to Worcester a short time ago and made a thorough investigation of the business. They reported very favorably in regard to the enterprise and the meeting of this evening is called for the purpose of letting the business men know just what the proposition is.

The main reason for the removal of the company from Worcester to some place in the west is to bring it nearer the base of supply for raw material. Mr. Farnsworth has had several offers to locate in other Wisconsin towns, but will give Janesville the first chance. Every business man, who is interested in the city's prosperity, is urged to be at tonight's meeting.

ROOM FOR PRESIDENT

HOW THE EXECUTIVE MANSION IS BEING IMPROVED.

President's Dwelling to Be Less of an Office and More of a Home—Part of Conservatories Removed to Make Room for Clerical Force.

When President Roosevelt and his family leave the pleasant confines of Sagamore Hill for the White House, they will find that the executive mansion has undergone changes in their absence. Congress has authorized the president to make alterations in the building that is at once his dwelling place and business office, and workmen are busily engaged in making it more of the former and less of the latter.

Chief among the changes in the White House is the building of a new annex to serve as an executive office. It has long been common talk that the private quarters of the presidents have been shamefully restricted as to space, and some writers have even characterized the home of the head of the nation and of "the first lady of the land" as a "seven room flat." Now, however, this condition is to be remedied by the new annex, whose purpose is to accommodate the clerical force attendant on the president, formerly lodged in the White House.

The new portion is to be built on the ground formerly occupied by the large conservatory. Part of the latter is to be preserved to do duty as a passageway from the more private portions of the mansion. The rooms gained by the removal of the offices are to be devoted to dwelling and social purposes.

The new section is to consist of a one story building conforming architecturally to the general plan of the house. It will be built of brick and painted white. Its length will be 110 feet wide and its width 50 feet, and there will be a basement and an attic. The main door will be in the middle on the north side.

The first room off the main entrance is to be a reception room for visitors. Back of this will be the room of Secretary Cortelyou and Secretary Loch, and adjoining the secretaries' office will be the president's private office. Another room will be reserved for cabinet meetings and others for reporters

RIVAL LOVERS FIGHT AT A STRINGING PARTY

Two Men Are Killed and Six Persons, Including One Woman, Are Injured.

London, Ky., Aug. 27.—A report has been received here of a battle on Sturgeon creek, Owsley county, in which two men were killed and five men and one woman wounded. The fight took place at a bean-stringing at the home of William Peters. It is said to have been between the Neeleys and Allens.

About fifty shots were exchanged. Jesse Neeley was shot seven times and killed. John Allen was shot eight times. He died in a few hours. Mr. and Mrs. Peters are among the wounded.

Fifteen persons were engaged in the battle, which took place in a small room while the party was at supper. The trouble is said to have started between Jesse Neeley and John Allen, rivals for the affections of a young woman. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Delaney Peters, Robert Allen, Arthur Lynch and a boy named Gunns.

PRESS COMMENT.

Madison Journal: It will cost Milwaukeeans and other residents of the state $12 dollars each to eat with President Roosevelt when he visits Milwaukee in September. The receipts from the banquet to which this price is to be charged are expected to pay the expenses of entertaining the president and his party.

New London Republican: From all parts of the state, just on the eve of the opening of the hunting season, come reports that never in recent years has game been so abundant. And yet it is only a few weeks since certain papers and individuals were asserting that the state's game warden were doing nothing for the protection of the game, but were devoting all their time to political work.

Eau Claire Leader: Eau Claire county is about to again harvest another magnificent crop of tobacco. The weather has been most favorable all summer and the plant has grown to an enormous size. It might well be called rank tobacco. It is to be hoped that it will be gathered before frost comes, for if there is one thing more than another to be dreaded in this world it is frozen tobacco. Those who smoke it are not worried in the least. It is those who have to inhale the fumes who are to be pitied.

Stevens Point Journal: Steve Perry of the Marion Advertiser says in his paper that the delegates from Waupaca all went home from the congressional convention with new suits of store clothes and pink neckties. This is important information as far as it goes. But as Steve was himself a delegate, though not from the city of Waupaca, it would also be interesting to know the hue of the neckwear he selected.

Milwaukee News: Harmony in parties is desirable. But care should be exercised that it is not bought at too high a price. When sacrifice of the principles is paid for harmony, the people will find that they have been in a gold brick game. There can be no harmony by just declaring it in any party. Lasting harmony is the harmony and triumph of true principles, not the division of spoils by men.

STILL "BOYS IN BLUE"

The adoption of the inconspicuous olive drab as the color of the field uniform of the United States army is the result of experience in war. The improvement in fire arms has been such that a man in blue is too easy a mark for the enemy. It is well to make a change which will promote efficiency and save lives. Nevertheless, to the American people their soldiers will still be "the boys in blue."

Historic usage and sentiment have been respected by the retention of the blue uniform for dress occasions. As for the new service uniform, the change in actual practice is not so great as might appear. The American soldiers practical genius has ever been prompt to modify dress that in no way aided him to hurt his enemy and might aid his enemy to hurt him. In the war for independence uniforms were various. For well known reasons the men were often glad to wear anything they could get. The most approved dress, however, was the blue coat and buff breeches of the Continental line. In 1796 the infantry wore dark blue coats. In 1810 the rank and file in all branches of service were put into blue coats or jackets. In 1821 the army regulations made blue the army color, and later regulations prescribed light blue trousers for rank and file.

In the period between the Mexican and civil war there was a tendency in independent companies toward gray. This was in imitation, perhaps, of the gray uniform still worn by the West Point cadets. There is a widespread belief that General Scott favored a gray uniform, and for a few months in 1814 his army on the Niagara frontier wore gray. At the opening of the civil war many of the existing militia organizations both North and South had gray uniforms. The confederates stuck to gray, or, rather, butternut, which was actually the first "khaki" uniform generally worn. The Federal troops, of course, because that was the regular army color, and the historic color, and because at that time it was the best service uniform in use, wore blue.

The exigencies of active service during the civil war and the practical genius of the American soldier, already noted, tended to tone down the brightness of the blue. This tendency became still more marked in the succeeding Indian campaigns. When the Spanish war began the field dress of the regular army, no matter what the regulations said, was in fact woolen shirt, trousers, brown slouch hat, shoes, cartridge belt, and gun. And the soldier that kept his cartridge belt filled and his rifle in first-class condition was not pestered on active service with questions about the color of his clothes.

The American soldier's laudable habit of thinking for himself, wherein he excels all other soldiers, as well as the wisdom of military experts, has led to the formal adoption of the earth-colored service uniform and the formal reservation of the blue uniform for dress occasions and parade purposes. The practical change, in fact, preceded the change in law. And so the historic blue uniform disappears from the battle field as a visible fact, and yet remains in the larger field of public thought and imagination.

In blue uniform the American soldier has fought since there was a United States. In blue he fought and won the greatest war in history. Blue he will still wear with pride, though not for his working clothes. For that reason, no matter what the regulations say, to all the world in song and story so long as the public endures, American soldiers will still be "the Boys in Blue."

SPOONER AND COOPER.

The Beloit Free Press protests wildly against the attitude of the Gazette towards Congressman Cooper, and claims that while the paper offers no criticism against Senator Spooner, that it censures Mr. Cooper for his apparent lack of interest in state politics. The Free Press claims that both congressmen occupy the same ground, and that both are wise in declining to mix up with state affairs.

The Gazette is not inclined at this time to enter into a discussion of the question, as it is interested in the success of both Senator Spooner and Congressman Cooper. So far as the latter gentleman is concerned, the paper brought him out for congress some years ago, and has always given him loyal support.

Mr. Cooper has repeatedly stated that he was under peculiar obligations to Rock county, and the republicans of the county believed that when the time came he would be glad to recognize the obligation. They were a little surprised therefore, to find in the convention that renominated him last June, two delegates from his county holding federal offices under his recommendation, who refused to vote for resolutions endorsing a Rock county man for governor.

They were still further surprised when Mr. Cooper's home district declined to support the Rock county candidate for nomination in the state convention.

While it may be beneath the dignity of a congressman to mix up with state affairs, and while his time may be absorbed in questions of national importance, yet there are questions of courtesy and appreciation that should not be ignored. The case of Senator Spooner and Congressman Cooper are not parallel, and the republicans of the county so understand it.

AN OUTSIDE CRITIC.

The Chicago Tribune takes a whiff at Wisconsin politics, by claiming editorially that Governor La Follette is out with a dog of trace, and will no longer oppose the election of Senator Spooner. The paper concludes that this is a move in the interests of harmony and that Governor La Follette should be commended for the course pursued.

The Chicago Tribune has long enjoyed the reputation of "talking through its hat" on any thing that pertained to republicanism. The paper abused Governor Tanner through his entire administration, and has persistently pursued the same course towards Governor Yates. Too pure to associate with the republican party it has long been without a party, and destitute of political influence.

The Tribune poses as a reformer, travels with the Civic Federation and assumes to dictate political policy. Governor La Follette appeals to the paper because he professes to be a reformer and the men who do not agree with his visionary schemes are advised to get no line.

While the Tribune is a great newspaper it is out of its element when it comes to political advice. It knows about as much about Wisconsin politics as it does about Illinois republicanism, and it has long since ceased to be recognized as a republican paper in its home state.

James Conklin, the Madison coal dealer who was appointed warden of the state prison at Waupun by the "Board under Control," has decided that he does not want the job and has tendered his resignation to the board. Now the poor "Board under Control" must wait until the governor comes back and makes another choice of his for the place.

As one prominent politician expressed it. "Why Judge Anderson stood right up in the meeting and spoke right out." Anderson did stand right up in the meeting and did speak right out. He spoke to the point, and the point is such a large one it may puncture the balloon of the executive machine if they don't watch out.

A man who can stand up and say what he thinks without crawling behind the bush to do so has the admiration of every true man in the country. Such a man is Judge Anderson and he is an honor to the party and to the state.

The statement of General Grant that three hundred papers in the state were bought up by the Spooner supporter and were consequently thieves, places a halo about the personally conducted sheet and the sheet run by "We" Lush at La Crosse.

Somewhere in the statutes of the state is a blue law relating to the mailing of pernicious literature. It is a question if the campaign documents do not come under this section. If not, why not? They are certainly pernicious enough to suit the most excelling.

With coal at ten dollars a ton and wood scarce it will be up to the farmers to save their corn cobs for fuel and sell their wood in the cities. Cob fires make much heat when they are properly cared for and handled.

When well meaning politicians must leave their party to satisfy a very few, who have deluded the voters at large then it is time for radical moves. Not only moves but actions that will mean something.

Democratic politicians throughout the state are beginning to find that there is some good in Rose after all. It took the Milwaukee Journal's opposition, however, to wake them up to the fact.

Russell Sage thinks that Pierpont Morgan should step in and settle this coal strike. He says it is up to him to do so and that the poor suffering miners will appreciate it. Has any one ever heard that Russell Sage gave any money to the poor suffering miners? The last time his name was mentioned in connection with charity it was about the time he evicted his own cousins from his farm for failure to pay a note. Russell can talk well but his Baxter street hats do not fit his head just right and some times it slips down over his eyes and he talks through it.

PRESS COMMENT.

New London Press: And now Waukegan county republicans are accused of making a political deal for cash consideration to deliver the county congressional delegates. What next?

Marquette Eagle: The Oshkosh herald once who claims smallpox is spread through some logs and lumber, is not very familiar with the way pine is handled in northern Wisconsin.

Madison Democrat: The price of coal is likely to be so high as to compel the western folks to burn corn. Here in Wisconsin we may have to try corn-stalks, baled hay or straw in the bundle.

Neenah News: There must be redeeming qualities in Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, aspirant for the democratic nomination for governor of Wisconsin. The Milwaukee Journal does not love him.

Richland Republican-Observer: The gentlemen who brought on the coal strike are not worrying over the prospect of a hard coal famine next winter, as they go south during the cold weather anyway.

Neenah Times: Hon. John Klunwin of Oshkosh is talked of by his friends as a candidate for attorney general on the democratic ticket. He would pile in dead-loads of votes in Winnebago county.

Milwaukee Journal: With some women voting on the question of state superintendent, Mr. Cary will find it essential to be careful of his appearance, even if the methods employed to get him the nomination were a trifle dubious.

Hudson Star-Times: If a public man deceives you once it is his fault. If he deceives you the second time it is your fault. When deception towers upon it a third or fourth time it is common stupidity to take his word on any important matter.

Plymouth Review: It matters but little what republicans may think about state issues they are united upon the proposition that Congressman Barney ought to be returned to the house of representatives. If he accepts the nomination he will receive the full support of his own party in the district. He is certain of receiving many democratic votes also.

Waukesha Freeman: J. E. Jones, of Portage is the latest addition to the list of democratic aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination. He seems to occupy a middle position between the high-minded intellectual candidate and the hustling spell-binder candidate. We still cling to the opinion of the supremacy of the spell-binder in democratic ranks.

Neenah Times: It has been suggested that those who signed a petition to cut down all the cottonwood trees in Neenah were actuated by humane motives, a desire to see the wood used for fuel purposes during the coming winter. But this would be only one remove from burning down one's house in order to keep warm.

Neenah News: The charges of The Milwaukee Journal relative to Governor LaFollette's part in the possible selection of Prof. Van Hise have been extremely sensational, and recent developments have proved, without foundation, Governor LaFollette has not interfered or striven to guide the selection of a president to succeed President Adams.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: At Janesville yesterday, amid a savage chorus of growls and roars, while two keepers stood with whips and revolvers ready for any emergency, a young couple were married in a den of lions. There will seem times when even wedded life will seem tame to them, after that.

Henry Hinzpeter, who has been visiting at the home of J. C. Osborn during the carnival, has returned to his home in Lake Geneva.

CEREMONIES TO BE IMPRESSIVE

AT DEDICATION OF SOLDIERS' MONUMENT TOMORROW.

PROMINENT MEN WILL SPEAK

Splendid Program Planned by the Rock County Ex-Soldiers' and Sailors' Union.

In connection with the annual reunion of the Rock county Soldiers' and Sailors' association which will be held in this city tomorrow, there will occur the dedication of the monument which was erected by the people of Rock county to her deceased heroes of the civil war. The erection of the marble shaft in the court house park was due largely to the efforts of the association which meets here tomorrow and it is quite appropriate that this year's reunion should be devoted to its formal unveiling and dedication.

The morning will be devoted to informal greetings between the old comrades of the days of '61 and '65 and, after an appetizing dinner in the park, the dedicatory exercises will be held at the monument, beginning at two o'clock.

Large Crowd Expected
People from all over the southern part of the state are expected here, to take part in the exercises. Excursions will be run from various nearby towns bringing in the large number of people who will be here to witness the event. The surviving veterans of the companies raised in Rock county, in whose memory the shaft will be dedicated, will be out in full force to take part in the exercises to be held in memory of their departed comrades.

Efficient Committee
The exercises for the day were arranged entirely by the monument committee of the Rock county ex-Soldiers and Sailors Union which included J. L. Bear, president; W. J. McIntyre, Sec., and W. G. Palmer, Treasurer. To their efforts is due the excellence of the program planned and the number of prominent speakers who have been secured for the occasion.

A Dramatic Scene
The monument will be properly draped for the occasion and the unveiling will be one of the dramatic scenes of the day. The exercises at the shaft will begin at two o'clock, but there will be a parade of the local and visiting veterans before that time.

The Speakers
Rt. Rev. Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago will deliver the dedication address and will be followed by Department Commander James Agen of West Superior and Past National Commander A. G. Weissert of Milwaukee.

Day's Program
The program for the day will include dinner in the park, served by the ladies of W. H. Sargent Woman's Relief Corps, No. 21; a parade, the dedicatory exercises and a campfire in the evening at East Side Odd Fellows' hall, with a banquet served by the ladies of the Relief Corps.

The following general order has been issued by the Rock County ex-Soldiers and Sailors' Union, giving the complete plans and program for the day:

(Signed) IRA FAY THOMPSON, Commander Morris Camp, No. 193, S. A. W. V.

The Monument.
The monument to be unveiled tomorrow was erected in March 1902, by the people of Rock county in memory of the soldiers and sailors of the county who lost their lives in the war of the Rebellion, 1861 to 1865.

A Stately Shaft.
The monument stands 56 feet 2 inches high and weighs 151 tons. It is of Barry granite and was erected at a cost of $8,173.12. A. S. Jackson of Beloit being the contractor. The foundation for the monument was completed last fall and the corner stone laid with appropriate exercises, but the shaft was not placed in position until last March. Since that time the lot surrounding the monument has been graded and sodded, so that it now presents a handsome appearance.

In Memoriam
The dedication tomorrow will complete the ceremonies attendant upon the erection of the monument, and leave it in its glory as a lasting tribute of the people of Rock county to its deceased heroes.

FIRST ROUND OF MATCH PLAY HELD YESTERDAY.

WINNERS IN THREE FLIGHTS

German Supper and Dance Follow the Play—Semi Finals on Next Monday.

The first round of match play in the home tournament of the Mississippi golf club took place yesterday afternoon on the club links. The weather was perfect for good golf and all the contestants that started enjoyed the game very much.

The grounds were in first class shape, the dry weather of the last two weeks holding the grass back in its growth and allowing the green keeper to get caught up with his mowing.

On account of only twenty-four scores being handed in there were but three flights of players, there being eight players in each flight. As this was not a handicap match the players were divided into three classes in order to put them on an equality.

Dispute Over Match

Some of the contestants were not present and forfeited to their opponents. In the match between Colin C. MacLean and Orion Sutherland there is a dispute which will have to be settled by the handicap and games committee. Mr. MacLean claims that he was to play Sutherland at two o'clock and as Sutherland was not there he left and went down town. Sutherland claims that he was on the grounds and that MacLean knew it and that he was at the tee ready to play at the appointed time. He waited for more than an hour for MacLean and as he did not make his appearance he claimed the match. This was the only dispute during the afternoon the result of the matches being as follows:

First Flight

Albert Schaller beat George Baumann 5 up and 1 to play. O. Sutherland won from C. C. MacLean on a forfeit. H. G. Carter beat Chas. Dunn 2 up and 1 to play. Leo Brownell beat H. S. McGinnis, 3 up and 2 to play.

Second Flight

Chas. Schaller beat S. D. Tallman 4 up and 2 to play. Charles Zecher beat F. H. Echnil 4 up. E. E. Fittfield beat H. W. McNamara 6 up and 5 to play. Burns Brewer beat H. R. King 1 up in twenty holes after a hotly contested game.

Third Flight

Herbert Goldin beat George Baumann, 4 up. George Brownell beat Harry Haggart 4 up. A. M. Valentine beat Harry Atwood 5 up and Charles McLean forfeited to H. H. McKinney.

Semi-Finals

The starters in the semi-finals next Monday afternoon will be:

First Flight: Albert Schaller, O. Sutherland, H. G. Carter, Leo Brownell.

Second Flight: Charles Schaller, Charles Achterberg, F. E. Fittfield and Burns Brewer.

Third Flight: Herbert Goldin, George Brownell, A. M. Valentine and H. H. McKinney.

AMERICA'S DUTY TO THE CUBANS

ASKS ALL TO AID IN EFFORT

Reciprocity Should Be Granted to Infant Government by Powerful Nation that Brought About Release from Spanish Oppression.

Augusta, Me., Aug. 27.—Cuban relations and the duty of the United States to the island republic, the need of a strong navy, ever improving and ever ready for service, and the qualities in a man which are necessary to make him a good citizen and an aid in building a great government were impressed upon the people of three states by President Roosevelt in his series of speeches.

A flattering tribute was paid to Thomas Brackett Reed by the president during his address at Portland, the home of the ex-speaker. Mr. Roosevelt said the majority never had ruled until Reed as speaker of the house took things in hand, and, despite criticism, assumed control.

Praises Moody.
Secretary of the Navy Moody also was complimented during the president's visit to his cabinet members home town.

Regarding Cuba, President Roosevelt was especially earnest. He declared reciprocity that will help the island republic in its days of infancy must be granted by the powerful republic that freed Cuba from oppression, and he urged all to aid in bringing about the concession needed.

Sleeps in Blaine's Bedroom.

President Roosevelt, after a most busy day, filled with speechmaking and greetings from throngs at every city and village through which he passed, was the guest of Gov. Hill in this city. Many stops were made on the way from Boston to this city, the president delivering addresses at Lowell, Lawrence, and Haverhill, Mass., and Dover, N. H., in addition to his speeches in Maine.

Gov. Hill's house has become historic because of the fact that it was the home of James G. Blaine, and the president occupied the identical bedroom used by that statesman.

Crowds Cheer.

For twenty-five minutes the city of Lowell, Mass., entertained President Roosevelt. The president left Boston at 8:35 o'clock. The towns of West Medford, Winchester, and North Billerica turned out immense crowds and gave a rousing cheer as the train passed by. At each place the president appeared on the platform and acknowledged the greetings.

The special train arrived at Lowell at 9:19 a. m. and its arrival was signaled by the firing of a presidential salute by the local militia, and the G. A. R. performed guard duty.

Arriving at the speakers' stand, the president was presented to the people in a brief sentence by the acting mayor. A sentry, a Spanish war veteran, stood on either side of the president as he rose to speak. Cheers and applause greeted him.

ARMED KAFFIRS THREATEN BOERS

SERIOUS CONFLICTS EXPECTED

Unarmed Whites Are at Mercy of Blacks, Who Were Supplied With Arms by British Authorities in South Africa.

Johannesburg, Aug. 27.—A strong force of British troops has been dispatched to the western border of the Transvaal, ostensibly to relieve troops ordered to India, but it is currently reported that this step is taken owing to disturbances among the natives. Rumors are also current here of an intention to annex Swaziland or establish a protectorate there, where a strong force of constabulary is now posted.

One of the foremost South African authorities in London said recently: Blacks Are Armed.

"Among the immediate dangers in the Transvaal, native attacks on Boers returning to their farms and other assaults are threatening to lead to serious conflicts between Boers and blacks. A great number of the blacks in the country have managed to secure arms. There is, therefore, the anomalous situation of unarmed whites and armed blacks living in proximity on outlying farms."

Natives of the Transvaal have been reported as wandering about the country armed with rifles which they have either pilfered or purchased.

Boths on the Situation.

In an article published Aug. 23 in the Vienna Fremdenblatt, General Botha was credited with saying:

"The civilization of South Africa is threatened by the Kaffirs. England armed these tribes to fight for her; now the war is ended the Kaffirs have not returned their arms, but have retreated with them to inaccessible places in the mountains, where they are reported to be engaged in daily shooting exercises and preparations for war."

Calls on British to Act.

"Unless the English authorities display the greatest energy the Kaffirs are likely to cause great trouble."

Swaziland is inhabited by a warlike Kaffir race and lies to the east of the Transvaal.

The western frontier of the Transvaal is formed by Bechuanaland, which is inhabited chiefly by Kaffirs, the tribe of the Bechuanas predominating.

Heart Disease

retards the circulation, weakens the stomach, deranges digestion, pollutes the blood, destroys the nervous force and saps the vitality of the whole system. It causes pains in the side, palpitation, shortness of breath, smothering, dropsical swellings, sinking spells, and frequently ends all suffering in sudden death. Why tempt death when a cure is within easy reach?

"My head would get so hot it seemed to be burning up, while my feet were like ice. My limbs would swell and get numb. I had to sit in a chair day and night for months and my heart throbbed and pained me terribly. After using three bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could do a good day's work."

ENTERTAINED HER OLD CLASSMATES

MISS PROCTOR THE HOSTESS

Members of the Class of '99 Were Her Guests at a Pleasant Lawn Party.

Members of the class of '99, Janesville High school, enjoyed a most delightful reunion last evening as the guests of Miss Bertha Proctor, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Proctor, in the town of LaPrairie. Over thirty members of the class and a few invited guests made up the merry party which met at the High school building at 7:15 o'clock and shortly afterward drove away in carriages.

At Miss Proctor's home the scene was a brilliant one. The spacious lawn, which is as even as a ballroom floor, was illuminated with Chinese lanterns, whose decorative beauty as they swayed in lines of soft colors and light between the trees, was very effective. More brilliant illumination was furnished by large lanterns with reflectors, making the out-door scene as light as day.

Dancing and Games.

An immense platform had been erected on the lawn and dancing was the chief attraction of the evening. Excellent music was furnished by a string orchestra and it was an ideal evening for tripping the light fantastic out of doors. Other amusements were also provided and those who did not care for dancing found pleasure in playing crokinole and other games.

Appetizing Refreshments.

Nor were the wants of the inner man forgotten. Great baskets of apples were placed where they would be convenient for the members of the party and they were visited frequently. Later in the evening an elaborate supper was prettily served, the tables being laid in the house.

An Enjoyable Reunion.

This was by no means the first reunion which the class of '99 has held since its graduation but it was one of the most enjoyable. The fun lasted until another day had been ushered in and when the happy young people bade their hostess goodnight it was about 3 o'clock when the party reached home.

ENTERTAINED AT TEA

Miss MacGregor is the Charming Hostess

Miss Margaret MacGregor entertained a small company of young lady friends at tea last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacGregor. An appetizing supper was prettily served by Misses Belle MacGregor and Alice Harper after which the evening was devoted pleasantly to music and games.

FORMER GOVERNOR HOADLY PASSES AWAY

One-Time Executive of Ohio Succumbs to Very Long Illness at Watkins, N. J.

New York, Aug. 27.—Ex-Governor George Hoadly of Ohio died at Watkins, N. J.

The ex-governor had been ill for some time. Having visited Watkins several years ago, he was impressed with the natural beauty of the place, and several weeks ago, becoming much more indisposed, concluded that he again would go to Watkins, with the hope of regaining some of his lost strength.

Mr. Hoadly was born in New Haven, Conn., in 1826. His father was at one time mayor of that city, but emigrated west. He was graduated from the Western Reserve College, Ohio, in 1844, and after reading law for a year went to Cincinnati and entered a law office. He was admitted to the bar in 1847.

He was elected to the legislature of 1851 and later to the judgeship of the superior court. In 1876 Governor Hoadly joined the liberal republicans, and was absorbed into the democratic ranks under the banner of "reform" and the leadership of Tilden and Hendricks.

He appeared as counsel in favor of the Florida and Oregon democratic electors in 1877. In 1883 he was nominated for governor against Judge Foraker, the republican nominee. The campaign was an exciting one and attracted the attention of the whole country. It resulted in the election of Hoadly by a decided majority. Later he had practiced law in New York.
